RE: You've got to admit

If it's valued at 0.5p why are you going to buy at a penny?? Also if it's dropping to a penny why didn't you sell all your holding at 3.90p instead of just 60%?? LIAR... FACT!

The Petition is gaining support

Apologies for board hopping but- The petition is going quite well; 4100+ signatures so far. Although it really needs a turbo boost. <https://petition.parliament.uk/petitions/112044/sponsors/frRbCOsOLO6QqIN82UOX> This petition was stalled in parliament since 12th Aug 15; finally green lit on 12th feb 2016. The FCA don't even reply on the matter, now is your chance to have your say. If you hate seeing buys reported as sells etc!!!!!! Has already been sent to Martin Lewis, Daily Mail, Moneyweek & Watchdog. My local MP supported this petition by writing to the petitions committee to help un-stall it. There's 650 MP's in Westminster. So have you written to your MP? 649 to go! If this petition doesn't reach 10,000; then imo we might as well have not bothered as it will almost certainly be filed B1N; @ 10,000 the government should respond. So - If you haven't yet signed or indeed have but haven't passed it on to others, then now's the time to do so. We really need a social / media savvy individual to help generate more interest in this.

Central London house prices fizzle, demand moves into home counties

[Today 14:31]
 (ShareCast News) - New UK housing research on Monday showed that central London house prices have begun to slow to a standstill and that an increasing number of Londoners are moving into the commuter belt around the capital.
